LIFE IS MOTIVE POWER

"THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD" IS INADEQUATELY PROTECTED

I sincerely appreciate Mr. Cowan's request that I write a short article on a subject which he knows is near to my heart, entirely outside of the fact that I get my bread and butter out of it.

Life, human life, is the motive power of all the activity of the world. The only reason that America is the throbbing, pulsating, wonderful land that it is, is because of what human brain and activity have wrought in the last 400 years. Without that, wild nature would still hold sway; with it, the United States annually produces billions of dollars of wealth. Anything, then, which will, in some degree, indemnify against the loss of this most valuable possession is surely one of the greatest agencies for good of which this world can know. No system has yet been devised which will do this, but life insurance. No longer do men doubt the great advantage in insuring their lives, although, as yet, the total value of life is very inadequately covered. If a man had a mechanical device worth $10,000, he would not be satisfied to have it insured against fire or theft for only ten per cent. of its value, yet a great many men insure their brains and lives in only such ridiculous amounts.

The natural expectancy of a life at age thirty-five is 31.8 years. If the earning power for these years averages only $1000 a year, $16,000 of life insurance is necessary to protect fifty per cent. of the value. Such men are frequently satisfied to carry $5000 or less of good insurance. And this, in face of the fact that if their buildings burn or their mechanism is destroyed more can be provided; but if the human machine is suddenly stricken the means of securing more is absolutely gone.

Cooperation and the law of average provide a scientific way by which society can protect the families and dependents of those of its members who are prematurely removed, or whom ill-fortune makes dependent in old age, by a small contribution from each of the fortunate ones, which they are easily able to pay.

By availing himself of the great institution of life insurance a man is enabled to provide a certain estate, whether he lives or dies, because this contribution insures it to his family in case of his premature death, or to himself and family in his own old age. When the uncertainty of investment is considered the extreme hazard of business, and the very small number who reach old age with a competency, the value of the old-line life insurance is tremendous! Eighty-five per cent. of the value of all estates which men leave at death is life insurance, although during their lives, they frequently regard it as an intangible something which is not of real value such as other forms of property.

According to "The Economic World" for April 22, 1916, statistics from the "Office of the Surrogate" of the city of New York show that over eighty-five per cent. of all adult persons who died during the period under consideration left no estate whatsoever, and only 5.1 per cent. left $5000 or over!

John Claflin, formerly multi-millionaire, head of the great dry goods house of the H. B. Claflin Co., of New York, with branch stores in twenty-six cities, was recently sued on a $40,000 lease and testified that he had only $3000 in personal property and $300 in money!

Patrick Calhoun, so recently the head of the United Railroads of San Francisco, was worth three millions, but his large fortune has vanished and he is now a poor man.

Such appalling examples as these should cause every man to realize how small a chance he has to be independent, and to set aside, during youth or middle age a sinking fund of a life or endowment policy of insurance in a good company, many of which are practically as solid as the government itself.

TAKEN TO COUNTY HOSPITAL

T. Tananye, a Japanese, who has been living by himself in a small cabin, at the corner of Glendale avenue and Colorado boulevard was the sudden subject of a fit of acute dementia Friday. Another member of the Japanese community reported the matter to the police requesting their assistance in restraining Tananye, who had developed suicidal mania and was threatening to kill himself. Chief Herald found Tananye violent and had much trouble in securing him. The unfortunate man was taken to the county hospital.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

PROF. ROOT COMMUNICATES INTERESTING LETTER FROM BRITISH ARMY CHAPLAIN

Prof. W. Darwin Root, of Glendale High school, was for a time a missionary in Japan. There he met his wife who was then in Tokio as a missionary. Mrs. S. Hankin Hardy, an English lady from Australia came to South Dakota and lived in Mrs. Root's home for a time. They became great friends and when Prof. Root came back from Japan, going by way of Suez and Europe, he called on the Rev. S. Hankin Hardy and Mrs. Hardy who made him heartily welcome. The acquaintance between the two families ripened into a close friendship.

When the present war broke out the Rev. S. Hankin Hardy was appointed Wesleyan chaplain to the Third West Riding Infantry Brigade and was sent to the front. The two children of the Hardy family were sent to Manchester and Mrs. Hardy volunteered as a nurse and went to Nish, Servia. She had had a considerable experience before having been superintendent of the hospital at Ladysmith, South Africa, during the long siege of that place by the Boers. She was decorated with the Victoria cross at the close of the siege. In 1913 she was a representative of the British government at the Anti-Alcohol International congress at Milan.

Mrs. Hardy's experience at Nish and other parts of Servia were of the most varied character. She shared in all the horrors of the typhus outbreak and fought that scourge with all the resources of science, passing safely through the ordeal herself. When the German-Bulgar-Austrian attack swept the Servians out of their country Mrs. Hardy was among the refugees who traversed the mountains through deep snow, where thousands perished. Finally she reached an Adriatic port and was taken back to England. She recovered from that terrible experience and is now quite well. The following extracts from a letter recently received by Professor Root, from Chaplain Hardy tell something of the events in the field:

"Very shortly after the war broke out my wife went away to France and remained there with a field hospital until she got a severe attack of neuritis which compelled her to leave for home. After a short time she was offered charge of a hospital in Servia; but she was to create it. She was told that she would probably have to start alone in a barn or outhouse and as circumstances permitted, materials and supplies, with nurses as required would be sent out to her by the Servian Relief Fund. Early in 1915 she arrived at Kragujevatz. There she had charge of 600 men in an old prison. She was the only woman there. In fact she was the only one whether man or woman to do any work for that great crowd of wounded and sick men.

"After a time a Servian lady doctor joined her and together they turned that dirty old jail into a clean tidy and well-ordered hospital. Typhus broke out chiefly among the Austrian prisoners and spread to the Serbs and a terrible epidemic raged through the whole country. Thousands of people died and doctors and nurses perished by the hundred. By dint of hard service and sanitary modern methods the medical corps beat down the outbreak by about the end of April. Mrs. Hardy won the praise of King Peter for her work.

"At this time it was felt that on account of the imminence of attack by the immense army the Teutons were sending against Servia many more nurses and hospitals would be needed. Mrs. Hardy was sent to England after two months during which she was seriously ill by reason of the privations she had endured.

"Succeeding in her mission she returned to Servia and as hospitals were built she equipped them with beds and every equipment. Just as they were ready in came the Germans, Austrians and Bulgarians and snapped up all the Red Cross provisions. The Serbs had to retire and Mrs. Hardy had to make that terrible journey over the snowclad mountains of which I have spoken. It was full of unspeakable hardship and untold sorrow. Through the mountains of Albania and Montenegro the refugees finally arrived at Scutari. It is almost inconceivable how a delicate woman like Mrs. Hardy could have tramped those 400 miles over that forbidding country. It was by the grace of God alone. She came home very much broken down. She is now recovered and hopes to return and take part in the repatriation of the Serbs."

Mr. Hardy's own experience has been extraordinary and may form the subject of another communication.

MILITIA RECRUITING NOT SATISFACTORY

SECRETARY BAKER ORDERS COMMANDING OFFICERS OF STATE REGIMENTS TO USE OWN DISCRETION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Secretary Baker today expressed his dissatisfaction with the recruiting for the national guard regiments. The recrcuiting has been very slow and a great many men who offered themselves had to be rejected on account of not conforming with the somewhat stringent demands of the government for physical measurements and conditions. Secrcetary Baker has issued a message to all commanding officers of militia regiments giving them permission to stop or continue recruiting at their own discretion.

It is stated that the Roumanians have last 50,000 men in this fighting, besides a great quantity of munitions. The German troops were under the command of General Von Falkenhayn, former chief of staff of the German army. HOLLAND'S PEACE INQUIRIES SNUBBED

DUTCH GOVERNMENT'S INQUIRIES AS TO ACCEPTABILITY OF PEACE NEGOTIATIONS REBUFFED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

THE HAGUE, Oct. 7.—The Dutch government about two months ago began a series of inquiries as to the inclination of the Allies to consider peace propositions on the part of Germany. The advances of the Holland statesmen were not particularly well received and they were given to understand that the Allies considered such proposals as unfriendly at this particular juncture.

UNITED STATES MAY NOT BE ARBITRATOR

EUROPEAN AUTHORITIES SAY AMERICA AS A PEACE FACTOR IN EUROPEAN STRUGGLE IS UNLIKELY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—The likelihood that the United States will be called on to act as an influence to bring about peace in Europe is very small. Germany is particularly incensed against America on account of having supplied the Allies with ammunition. Prominent European statesmen state that the power and influence of the American government as common center round which the peace influences might rally have declined. King Alfonso of Spain is more and more referred to as the probable peace factor.

TWIN CITY LODGE MEETS—MR. AND MRS BARNETT HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE

K. OF P. MEETING

Twin City Lodge, No. 331, Knights of Pythias, which is the reconstituted and combined lodges of Miradero and Visor of Glendale and Tropico, met Thursday evening in the Tropico hall. In spite of the heavy rain there was a full attendance of the officers of the lodge. Bert Eachus, chancellor commander, presided. Speaking of the new conditions under which the Knights of Pythias met that evening, the chancellor commander stated that the old maxim "In union there is strength" was being exemplified in the conditions prevailing in the united lodge. The spirit of progress was present and he looked for a wonderful stimulus to the growth of the lodge. W. G. Cressey of Inglewood, who is a member of the lodge, whose distance from Tropico does not permit of constant attendance made an excellent speech complimenting the lodge on its growth and on the excellent set of officers in whose hands the welfare of the lodge had been placed.

Progress was reported on the new hall which is being erected on the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and Park avenue.

CARELESS USE OF FIREARMS

Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Barnett of 502 West Ninth street were driving in an auto up the Los Feliz hill Thursday in a touring car, both seated on the front seat and Mr. Barnett at the steering wheel, a touring car loaded with strangers driving down the hill met the Barnett car. In the rear seat of the stranger's car were seated two ladies and one gentleman. The man had in his hand a revolver which was discharged just as the strangers were passing the Barnett car. The bullet from the revolver passed just back of Mr. Barnett's head and just in front of Mrs. Barnett's face. Mr. Barnett sitting in a driver's position was leaning forward and Mrs. Barnett was reclining against the back of the seat.

The possibility of a serious accident was very apparent, and the careless use of firearms at all times should be discouraged. It is the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett that the discharge of the revolver was accidental. The occupants of the stranger's car did not stop, but looked back in an anxious manner as if to ascertain if any harm had been done by the stray bullet.

MR. PEART VISITS ILLINOIS

John G. Peart of 1417 Sycamore avenue has just returned from a three weeks' visit at his former home at Belvidere, Ill., where he went to attend to business matters. Mr. Peart brought his family to Los Angeles two years ago last April and they moved out to Glendale in July of this year. Mr. Peart has decided to go into business in Glendale and with this in view went back to Illinois to put his business affairs in shape to remain here permanently. He found conditions good in the part of Illinois which he visited although the early frosts have damaged the corn somewhat. Business everywhere seemed good. Mr. Peart had the doubtful pleasure of experiencing once more an electrical storm for which that section of the country is famous.

While a resident of Belvidere Mr. Peart was engaged in the furniture and undertaking business for years. He has leased rooms in the Hurtt building in Glendale and will open an undertaking business about the fifteenth of this month. His long experience and ability in his chosen profession will soon win him recognition here.

NOON DINNER PARTY

Mrs. Edmonds, wife of Rev. W. E. Edmonds, graciously entertained Friday at the Manse, 421 Cedar street, at a four-course 12 o'clock dinner. The guests were all residents or former residents of Mendota, Ill., the native city of the hostess. Decorations of cosmos and gorgeous Lady Hillington roses lent their beauty for the enjoyment of the guests. The lovely four-course dinner and the happy social time combined to make the occasion a most delightful one. The guests were Mrs. A. Erlinborn and her mother, Mrs. F. Shipley of Mendota, Ill., Mrs. Dr. K. C. Moody of Highland Park, Cal., Mrs. Ruby Scott and Mrs. David Black of North Glendale and Mrs. C. T. Van Etten of Tropico, all former Mendotaites.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

DEUTCHE VEREIN HOLD MEETING—STUDENTS' INTEREST IN NATIONAL POLITICS

The hyphenates of Glendale High school met Friday for the first time this year.

What, didn't you know? The Fatherland is represented at Glendale High by the Deutche Verein. This organization, composed of "Dutch" students will henceforth hold monthly meetings, and some great times are promised by those at the helm. Yesterday's meeting was presided over by the vice president, Elizabeth Stellar. Plans for the future were discussed, and the subject of pins was taken up.

A vocal solo by Dorothy Hunt was received with applause.

"Are you for Wilson?" "Are you for Hughes?" Questions like these are resounding through the halls and corridors of the school. Such a wide interest in national politics has never before been taken by a group of students. And this is how it all started: Mr. Howe, being like many other voters, undecided, challenged the American history classes to a discussion of the question. Mr. Howe was inclined toward the side of Mr. Hughes, but our president was not wanting for supporters for a rapid fire of pro-Wilson speeches showed where the students stand on the issue. The debate soon spread from the history and civics classes, and now it permeates the entire school. Wherever Bill Balthis, Carleton West or Ed Seay are to be found Wilson colors are flying, and many students are making a comprehensive study of the present situation. Mr. Howe, who always attempts to foster interest in public affairs among his students, is very much pleased over the spirit which is being shown.

Mr. Earle Wight presided at a meeting of the school tennis team held Thursday for the purpose of electing officers. Bill Balthis was unanimously elected captain and C. T. West manager.

The Sophomores easily defeated the Juniors in tennis Friday. The Juniors put up a game fight, but were outplayed at every angle, and did not win a single match. This forecasts a close series between the Seniors and Sophomores. High hopes prevail on both sides. The Sophomore team consists of Beldin, Puffer, Fanset, and Brown. The Senior line up is: McGillis, Wilson, Fischel and Westwood.

Robert Kolts and Jamie Shea who graduated last year and who are attending U. S. C. were visitors at the school during the week.

Ralph Miles was a host at a very enjoyable dancing party Friday evening at his home, 914 Randolph street, Casa Verdugo. Carnations and dahlias in profusion made cheerful the dining and living rooms and there was not a dull moment from the time the guests assembled until they departed regretfully homeward, after an evening replete with dance and song. Bidden to this merry affair were the Misses Clarita Scott, Mamie Ainkins, Viola Yorba, Catherine Phillips, Evangeline Hunchburger, Waunita Emery, Miss Ruggles and the Messrs. Fred Steffes, Paul Hyden, Verne Nyman, Thomas Phillips, Frank Fpadler, Ernest Martinez and Dr. Premer.

CHAPTER B. A. OF P. E. O.

Chapter B. A., of P. E. O. met at the home of Mrs. Eva Cunningham, 1414 Salem street, Friday afternoon, Despite the weather there was an excellent representation of members present. A good deal of routine business was dispatched in proper form and the meeting devoted its attention to a most interesting, instructive and carefully prepared paper on "Woman's Influence in California Legislation," by Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 South Kenwood. The roll call was answered by vacation reminiscences, which was productive of many graphic descriptions of events and scenery.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1916.

NEW STATE MILK LAW

Much benefit is expected from the new state milk law now going into effect. This law marks an epoch in health protection, according to the state medical authorities, and puts California in the front rank among those states which are protecting the health of the milk and butter consumer. Those authorities state that never before has the protection been adequate, as has been shown by the occasional disastrous epidemics of typhoid fever borne by milk. When to this is added the steady toll of deaths that have been the result of bowel infections in children and tuberculosis the relief afforded by the new protection is a thing for which everybody should be thankful.

Many large cities throughout the country have already given their citizens a part of the protection given by the new state dairy law, but it is unique for a state to undertake to see that all citizens, including those of the small towns, shall have uniformly safe supplies. The State Board of Health states that it is proud to share the responsibility of enforcing a law which shall bring such incalculable benefit to all the people of California.

It is noted by the State Board of Health that children suffer the most from infection due to contamination in milk and bottle-fed babies are in the greatest danger of all. The board predicts that during the first year after this introduction of the new milk law there will be a reduction in the number of deaths among children and a complete absence of those large milk-borne typhoid epidemics, similar to the one which has just ended in the West Side oil fields of Kern county, and the less serious outbreaks of Richmond and Colusa.

There is really no excuse for bemoaning the deaths of those who might have become useful members of society when all the time we permit poison to be given our children in place of pure diet. When we tolerate such conditions as those that made the Kern oil fields a breeding place of filth diseases we need not wonder that death takes its inexorable toll of those who sin against the laws of sanitation.

Read in the light of modern experience the ancient Mosaic health laws were surely part of divine wisdom. There is equal need for practicing the the sanitary methods which are well known to modern authorities and there is no reason that can be given why those regulations that deal with sanitary methods whether in the home, the oil fields, the mining camps or the dairies should be violated. Their violation means the deaths of many whom the state can but ill spare.

It is stated by the State Board of Health with good reason that had the new milk law been in force some years ago it would have prevented the epidemic at Palo Alto and Stanford university, and that the young men cut off in their prime would have been useful citizens today.

California has waited long for such a measure and while waiting has had to pay the usual price of delay. From this time forward it may be expected that the state which already has so small a death rate will reduce that rate to its smallest proportions and that California will gradually become known as a land where people are not cut off untimely; but fill out the measure of their days and enjoy the full span of years allotted to man. By that time the state, it is hoped, will have adequate provision for handling the tuberculosis patients who flock hither from other states and that in this way the spread of that dread disease may be prevented.

GENIUS OR WORK?

"Genius," said the thinker, "is an infinite capacity for taking pains." That is truly one kind of genius and it is doubtful if any genius has ever existed who did not take some pains with his work. Genius is in some measure an extraordinary capacity for work. There is, however, something more in genius than that. Robert Burns had so much natural genius that he could extemporize poems and witticisms or hours together. People came to hear him from all parts of the world. Their eager desire to witness this daily, hourly miracle of one never at a loss for the right word, for the right witticism, for the most biting sarcasm, proved Burns' ruin or at least helped him along the road.

Others, again, like Lord Macaulay, could take in a whole page of print at a glance just as an ordinary reader takes in a sentence and inferior readers manage to grasp one or two words at a time. Macaulay's genius was remarkable in every respect. No one will deny that the natural gift of such a man as Elihu Burrit was something more than a capacity for taking pains. Yet the common quality that enables a commonplace man or woman to give attention to nothing more than the one idea, that is directed toward the one end brings such an individual at last to the goal which the world calls success; while geniuses like Byron, like Shelley, like the elder Dumas, are permitted to take their way alone or accompanied by the jeers and howls of the populace and have to wait until a third or fourth generation deigns to recognize the genius the world abused. To be different from those roundabout you is an unpardonable sin. To attack the commonplace and hold it up to ridicule as did Edgar Allen Poe is to earn the world's scorn while living and even when dead to be pursued by the malice of those whom one has offended. Poe is now in the niche of fame; but the world permitted his beloved wife to starve to death and himself to be murdered by a rioting election gang without inquiry or relief.

"If you have extraordinary capacity for work," says a modern writer, "you will not only accomplish what a genius can accomplish, but you will through the full use of that capacity, actually become a genius." Mathematically when one adds nothing to nothing the result is nothing. Where no genius existed it seems a natural conclusion that none can be developed. It is something else, something that is not genius that is developed by work.

It may be true, in a way, that much work, may develop something like genius. That is to say it will accomplish a wonderful amount of work; but it is not possible that it can change the lead of commonplace into the gold of genius. Whatsoever genius touches it beautifies and adorns. It is the true philosopher's stone. It turns what seems commonplace to gold. It sees deep down into the secrets of the human heart. It perceives the beauties of Nature, the miracles of the plant world, the secrets of the hidden riches of the earth.

After all these things have been gathered together perhaps one individual seizes them and their fruitage; but the genius has told of them. He has formed for the world images of divine beauty in which the treasures of this marvelous world are enshrined. He may not possess real estate on earth, but he may have millions of acres elsewhere—in Mars, in Venus, in the countless planets of this universe. It is genius that has lifted up man's imagination beyond the earth to behold the canals of Mars and of Venus; to feel that everywhere in Creation is the breath of the Creator and wherever that breath breathes is life. Genius which is intuition, which is a much higher thing than reason has given this knowledge to the world and no amount of plodding could ever have arrived at such an end.

BOOZE FIGHTING

For the married man who cannot get along without drinks, the following is suggested as a means of freedom from bondage to the saloons:

Start a saloon in your own house. Be the only customer (you'll have to pay no license.) Go to your wife and give her $2 to buy a gallon of whisky. Buy your drinks from no one but your wife and by the time your first gallon is gone she will have $8 to put in the bank and $2 to start business again. Should you live ten years and continue to buy booze from your wife, and then die with snakes in your boots, she will have enough money to bury you decently, educate your children, buy a house and lot, marry a decent man, and quit thinking about you entirely.

The most disagreeable thing about the average man is that he seems to think he is just as good as you are.

The editor of The Evening News is a firm believer in life insurance, and thinks it good business for all persons who are physically able to pass the medical examination to carry a reasonable amount of insurance in a reliable company. Believing thus we have asked W. B. Kirk of Glendale who is well versed on the principles of life insurance to write an article on this subject. The article is published in another column of this issue of The Evening News.

A very prominent business man in Glendale was loudly complaining that his wife is neglecting him shamefully. She has too much outside charity to have any left for him this week. Why she even went so far as to appropriate a nice new necktie, a pair of socks he just purchased and a lot of his tobacco, all of this she is sending to a chap called "Tommy Atkins." Further more she tells him if he wants the home made cake he is so fond of he must go and buy it in the Guild hall next Monday.

A GLENDALE INSTITUTION

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce is a Glendale institution. The name Chamber of Commerce is merely a name given to a body of citizens who unite in working for the best interests of the community in which they reside.

Next Monday evening is the regular meeting night and it has been stated by J. W. Usilton, president of the Chamber that he will not serve longer as president. If this statement is true it rests upon the public spirited citizens of Glendale inside and outside of the Chamber to become interested in the perpetuation of this very valuable organization. GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Casa Verdugo restaurant grounds was to have been the scene of one of the series of progressive whist parties that the ladies of the Church of the Holy Family have been holding in aid of the building fund of that institution, but the inclemency of the weather compelled the crowd to go inside. For the same reason the attendance was less than had been expected. However there was no lack of enthusiasm and a goodly sum was collected for the benefit of the fund. The hostesses on this occasion were Miss Viola Yorba, Miss Lafaye, Miss Fangmann, Miss Margaret Studebaker and Mrs. Whittemore. The first prize was won by Mrs. Burlingham and the second by Mrs. Gammons. A substantial sum was realized for the church.

Miss Mamie Jenkins of Los Angeles was the guest Friday and Saturday of Miss Viola Yorba at Casa Verdugo. She and her hostess attended the dance party given by Ralph Miles Friday night.

Special arrangements have been made and everything will go all the way to England and Europe free of charge.

Your gift may go to the French frontier, the Dardenelles, Saloniki, the burning plains of South Africa or the Soudan, but wherever it goes the recipient will bless you and thank you on Christmas day.

All proceeds from sale of cakes, bread, etc., and afternoon tea will be divided, part going to the Christmas ship and the balance to be placed in the local treasury to purchase materials for work during the winter.

A Dairy That Needs No Sanitary Legislation

Long before laws and ordinances were passed in regard to sanitary conditions of dairies and the handling of milk, MacMuilin's had a sanitary dairy in every sense of the word, and all sanitary requirements were courted.

MacMullin's dairy not only complies with all laws and ordinances, but meets more sanitary conditions than are required, and has justly won the reputation of being "the Most Sanitary Dairy in the San Fernando Valley."

CARE AND COMMITMENT OF THE INSANE

Mental disease, as well as the more common infectious diseases, should interest those who are entrusted with disease prevention. The state board of health has a committee which is investigating the present method by which the insane and drug habitues are arrested, incarcerated, examined and committed to state institutions. From the preliminary reports of this committee it is apparent that the prevention of insanity and drug habits would be materially advanced by adequate study of mental and drug cases by experts before commitment. Under the present system many patients are never seen by a competent alienist until after they have been legally committed to an insane hospital. The average physician is no more able to diagnose mental disease accurately and pass on the need for commitment than he is able to practice that other important specialty—public health. Both involve responsibility which can not be met without special training and extensive experience. Mental disease and addiction to drugs, including alcohol, add greatly to the sum of human misery. The state needs psychopathic hospitals where the cases can be studied to determine the need for commitment, the type of institution to which the patient should be sent, and the possibility of avoiding formal commitment by a prompt cure at the observation hospital. Such study would greatly further the prevention of dependency from mental disease.—State Bulletin.

CHALMERS · MOTOR · CO
Detroit, Mich., U.S.A.

Quality First

A $56,000,000 "RUN" ON A CHALMERS CAR

"Run"—is the word. It's like a run on a bank. Only it's a run on a car—a Chalmers car. It seems endless. The people want more.

And so more must be built for them—20,000 more.

You remember a while ago that six hundred men took one look at this new car and bought $22,000,000 worth in forty very brief minutes. They were the Chalmers Dealers.

Now they insist that more of the same kind be built—more of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

So the Chalmers executives have put through a factory work order for 20,000 more of them.

They built and delivered, in six months, 18,000 That was all they intended to build for an entire year. That completed their part of the $22,000,000 affair.

We got them to build another 10,000. We thought that would be enough to last through the fall. But no, the 10,000 were quickly taken up during the summer months.

So they are going to build 20,000 more. That means, all told, 48,000 cars—or $56,000,000 worth of these remarkable 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

So you see why we use the word "run." The people who know good cars—like Emerson's wise saying about the man who makes a better mouse trap, etc., will find a beaten path to his door, even though he live in the woods—they create this ever increasing desire to own a Chalmers.

They have sought quality—not price. We seldom have people ask us the price of this car. When we tell them $1090 Detroit, they are very much taken back. We get little of the "price" trade. Most of those who come to us have passed that era in car buying.

They want quality. And they know pretty well where to look for it. They look for it in the sound of the engine, in the action of the clutch, in the action of the steering apparatus, in the sound of the differential.

They examine the radiator, try the brakes, observe the kind of glass in the windshield, note the kind of material in the top, and then poke around into the corners of the body.

That much done, they get into the car and try her out. For they are smart enough to know that the biggest result of quality is performance.

That's what usually brings us the sale. For performance is the car's middle name. She's got amazing acceleration—so lively and full of spunk. And then she climbs hills so quickly and hugs the road so well at a rapid clip.

And, best of all, she handles so easily. She's as obedient as any creature man ever made.

Once you try her you, too, will understand the "run" on her. It's a thing difficult to explain, but three editions of a car in a year's time is something to ponder over.

We have it direct by telegraph that Chalmers will continue to make these 3400 r. p. m.'s next season. There's no time limit set. As soon as these last 20,000 are built and out of the way there will probably be more.

So you're dead safe in getting a model of a car that has in no way reached its peak of popularity.

ELECTRICITY DRAWS BOYS

Kenneth Tinker, a Michigan boy six years old, whose father owns a local telephone line, is able to operate the central switch without assistance. The company has 210 subscribers. Paul S. He has a splendidly equipped wireless station at his home.

THE COST OF KEEPING CLEAN

Laundries in California do an enormous business. According to a recent United States census report the financial receipts of laundries in California are exceeded only by those in New York and Illinois, with their large populations. This means either that Californians are cleaner than most people or else that they are more inclined to send their soiled clothing to the public laundries than are the residents of other states. At all events, it shows an appreciation of cleanliness and a willingness to spend money to obtain it; which is reminiscent of the fact that the expenditure of large sums of money is necessary for its maintenance. Diseases like typhus fever will never appear in communities the people of which are just ordinarily clean. Enormous as is the expense involved in keeping clean, the results certainly are worthy of the investment.

In co-operation with California lumber companies, the forest service is making a study of the depreciation in value of lumber due to sap stain, shrinkage, checking, warping, splitting and breaking in the seasoning process.

In Southern California electric companies and the forest service are co-operating in testing out zinc chloride, creosote, crude oil and the combinations as preservatives for poles.

WHAT OF THE DOOR KNOB?

A door knob is a much-touched thing, yet it doesn't begin to receive the scrubbings that the kitchen floor or the front porch receive. It's passing strange, too, for at the present time much suspicion is directed toward the hearty hand clasp, particularly if it comes from a warm, moist palm. Yet who hesitates to wrench a door knob? Surely it deserves strong suspicion as a vehicle for the transfer of infection. Housekeepers might well neglect the front porch occasionally and leave a little dust on the top shelves, if it would enable the devotion of more time to cleaning the much-handled door knob.—Board of Health Bulletin.

At one time the town of Glasco, Kans, held the record for concrete pavement yardage compared with its population, which was 875. The recent award of 800 square yards of concrete pavement for the town of Hope, Kans., will take the laurels away from Glasco. Hope is credited with a population of 567.
